I would like to extremely congratulate all the UJPR team for completing about ten successful years since the establishment of the journal. I take this opportunity to thank Editor-in-Chief and all the board members for their progress and success in scientific publication pathway and providing suggestions to improve the journal quality, causing a journal indexed in good indexing platforms and increase the journal articles citation. The Universal Journal of Pharmaceutical Research (UJPR) stands as a beacon of progress and promise. This international, peer-reviewed journal is not merely a publication; it's a catalyst for innovation and collaboration. UJPR's commitment to open access signifies an unwavering dedication to the democratization of knowledge, offering a bridge to individuals from diverse backgrounds, and uniting them in the quest for pharmaceutical excellence. As a platform for students and professionals alike, UJPR nurtures aspirations. It provides the resources and insights necessary for individuals to not only build their careers but also to shape the future of pharmaceuticals.

I am expecting more success for our journal to be indexed in the famous indexing such as Scopus and Thomson Reuters.
