

Message

On behalf of the Editorial Board, it is my great pleasure to welcome readers, authors, and reviewers to this issue of the Universal Journal of Pharmaceutical Research. This issue reflects our continued commitment to publishing high-quality, peer-reviewed research that contributes meaningfully to the advancement of pharmaceutical, biomedical, and health sciences. The rapid evolution of scientific knowledge and global health challenges highlights the importance of credible research platforms that promote innovation, integrity, and collaboration. Universal Journal of Pharmaceutical Research strives to serve as an open and inclusive forum for researchers, clinicians, and academicians from around the world to share original research articles, review papers, and case studies that address contemporary scientific and clinical needs. I would like to express my sincere appreciation to our authors for choosing our journal to disseminate their work, and to our reviewers for their invaluable time, expertise, and dedication in maintaining the quality and rigor of the publication process. I am also grateful to the editorial and technical teams for their continuous efforts in ensuring the timely publication of each issue. As we move forward, we encourage researchers from diverse disciplines to submit their valuable contributions and actively participate in strengthening the scientific community. We remain committed to enhancing the journal's visibility, indexing, and global impact while upholding the highest ethical and academic standards.

I would like to extend my warm wishes for a Happy New Year, hoping that it brings good health, success, and continued scientific achievement to our global academic community.

Best wishes,

Prof. Liliya Logoyda

Head of the Department of Pharmaceutical Chemistry, Horbachevsky Ternopil National Medical University, Ternopil, Ukraine.
